The imaginary table - fictional sample | 2026-11-01

Objectives: interpret sources in context, recognize cultural diversity, reason step by step and collaborate without racing.

Before: choose fictional aliases. Share one phone per team if needed; alternate the reader and answerer. Do not ask for real names, bereavement stories or family photographs.

During: read instructions, allow discussion and reveal the explanation. Ask: which part of the source supports your answer? Which community or context does it describe?

Concepts to revisit based on this group's answers: careful reading.

Follow-up: choose one of those concepts. Revisit its answer sheet and explain an incorrect answer using an example or drawing.

This is not a high-stakes assessment. Results describe this session, not participants' ability or identity.
